

HORNED ALMIGHTY

S.

I acknowledge music as fuel for the body, mind, and soul, if having a soul. It is the lust to pursue perfection every time one composes, which reflects ones inner-self. The result is a symbol of ones achievement and effort. Each time, I get closer to the ultimate presentation of my auditive manifestation. This way of viewing music is for the individual. Music can also have a social character, defining a cultural background, making a link to your personal identity. Without identity, no personality and this is needed for achieving spirituality or any form of higher existence. Many references are to be found within a genre, which makes music a breeding ground for the creation of identity. Often based on emotional expressions, music is a powerful tool for propaganda, functioning as a recruitment of the masses. Music is truly my weapon of choice. "Without music, life would be a mistake." [Friedrich Nietzsche (1844 – 1900), German philosopher].
