

The Spiritual Significance Of Music

PANTHEON-I

TOR RISDAL STAVENES

For a musician, especially in the darker recesses of extremity, music is a spiritual matter. Music transcends the mere mathematical laying together of chords and harmonies and becomes the most important thing in life. In a world where gods have no place, music fills the void. By playing and performing you express yourself and your emotions and each work you do rejuvenates you and makes you one with your passion: music.
