

The Spiritual Significance Of Music

Art is the only way that man can express his feelings and thoughts. The evolutive, dynamic, and infinite colors of music makes it the most visceral way of art, combined with words and poetry on it's lines. The listener doesn't need to read or analyse it; the sounds and waves invade him, completely, changing his feelings, thoughts, and state of mind. The same occurs with the composer. So, the music is the expression of the self, in ways that even the composer doesn't see in the moment. Inspired melodies come from deep within us, from places that we maybe only know in dreams or nightmares. Who never heard a sound in the "real world" while they were sleeping? Music comes and goes, through all dimensions that we can and cannot see or imagine. Music is pure art, and life is a way of art itself, as well as death is a part of life.
